Problem
The NSIDC Science Coordinator will be supporting the DAAC scientific staff and associated instrument teams in product development and evaluation. Since most algorithm development is done on unix machines, it is highly advantageous to have boreas to install and configure software outside of the formal SSI&T environment. The Science Coordinator also participates Quality Assurance, both ad hoc as well as formal. This may involve using software other than what is being supplied with Version 2 for this purpose, such as newly-developed HDF-EOS viewers, or in-house packages such as are being proposed for the polar pathfinder multi-dimensional data set.

Proposed Solution
Reallocate from the V2.0 hardware pool a 2.0GB external SGI disk drive to give the NSIDC M&O Science Coordinator additional disk space required to perform the above functions.
